

Corporate Ethics Training Programs [www.wholepersonproject.com]

Who: Up to 20 people in one class.

What: Custom-designed informative and practical training programs on ethics. Some areas of expertise:

The Essentials of Ethics

Ethical Decision-making

Evaluating Ethics in Governance

Ethical Leadership

Generational Differences in Ethics

When: The training could be as concise as a two-hour or half-day module, or a one-day comprehensive session. Each of the sessions is tailored to reflect the types of ethical situations your team encounters. You determine whether to run up to three two-hour sessions per day, depending on your training needs.

Where: With a live instructor in a classroom setting at your location or via videoconference.

Why: These courses will enable auditors to identify, analyze, and apply ethical business practices and the IIA's Code of Ethics, and fulfill the yearly NASBA CPE requirement.

How: Interactive sessions implementing real-life examples and role plays. Participants will have training materials to use during the class and for future reference.
